Description

Signature Classics are proud to offer this truly exceptional 1974 Triumph Stag Automatic, presented in what can only be described as remarkably original and unrestored condition. With just 20,000 miles from new, this Stag represents an increasingly rare opportunity to own one of the finest surviving examples of Triumph's iconic grand tourer. Finding a Stag with mileage this low is unusual in itself, but to find one that remains so original, untouched and close to concours condition without having undergone restoration is extraordinarily rare. The condition of this car is simply outstanding. The bodywork is beautifully straight, the panel fit is excellent, and the paint presents to an exceptionally high standard. Chrome, brightwork and trim are all in equally impressive condition, while the interior remains wonderfully preserved with very little sign of age or wear. It is difficult to overstate just how well this car has survived over the years. Powered by Triumph's distinctive 3.0-litre V8 engine and paired with the desirable automatic gearbox, the Stag was designed as a refined open-top grand tourer capable of comfortable long-distance touring. The Triumph Stag has long been admired for its elegant Michelotti styling, distinctive T-bar roll hoop and effortless grand touring ability. Few cars of the era combine classic British charm, V8 power and convertible motoring in quite the same way. Included with the sale is a hard top roof, giving the car year-round usability and adding further desirability for collectors and enthusiasts alike. This is an incredibly rare chance to acquire what must be one of the best original Triumph Stags currently available on the market. Cars of this quality, originality and mileage seldom appear for sale and are becoming increasingly difficult to find.
